ABOUT ME

I am self motivated and complete tasks I set for myself with due diligence. I am good at working in a team as well as taking initiative myself. During internships in a nursing home and a daycare center that were completed in the scope of the practical training at the Fachoberschule, I have gathered valuable experience working with various types of clients, as well as working successfully in a team.

In the practical courses of my chemistry and biochemistry degree, I have been able to learn fundamental laboratory skills and routines as well as safety-measures. These courses also strengthened my ability to make careful observations and transcribe detailed technical documentation of procedures. The necessity to process and visualize experimental data also taught me skills in python and Microsoft-Office. Some of my personal strengths are that I am reliable and excellent at time management.
